SPOKEN/CASUAL ENGLISH

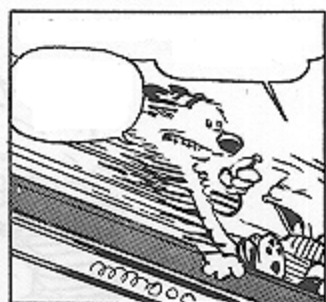

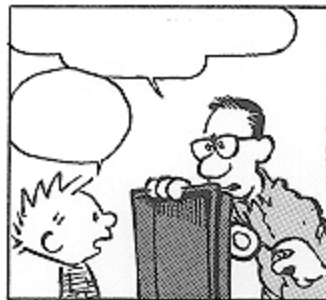

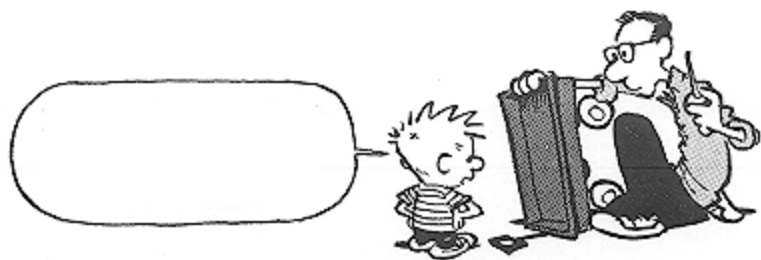

- In spoken English, we sometimes do not change verbs in a noun clause, especially if what we are reporting happened a short time ago
 - Yesterday, Amy said, “Jack didn’t come to work.”
 - Yesterday, Amy said Jack didn’t come to work.
 - This is correct when speaking.
 - Yesterday, Amy said Jack hadn’t come to work.
 - This is also correct and more common in writing.

REPORTING VERB IN PRESENT/FUTURE

- If the reporting verb is in the simple present, present progressive, present perfect, or future, the verb in the noun clause does not change.
 - Betty says, “I’m going to buy a new car.”
 - Betty says that she’s going to buy a new car.
 - Betty says that ~~she was going to buy~~ a new car.

COMICS

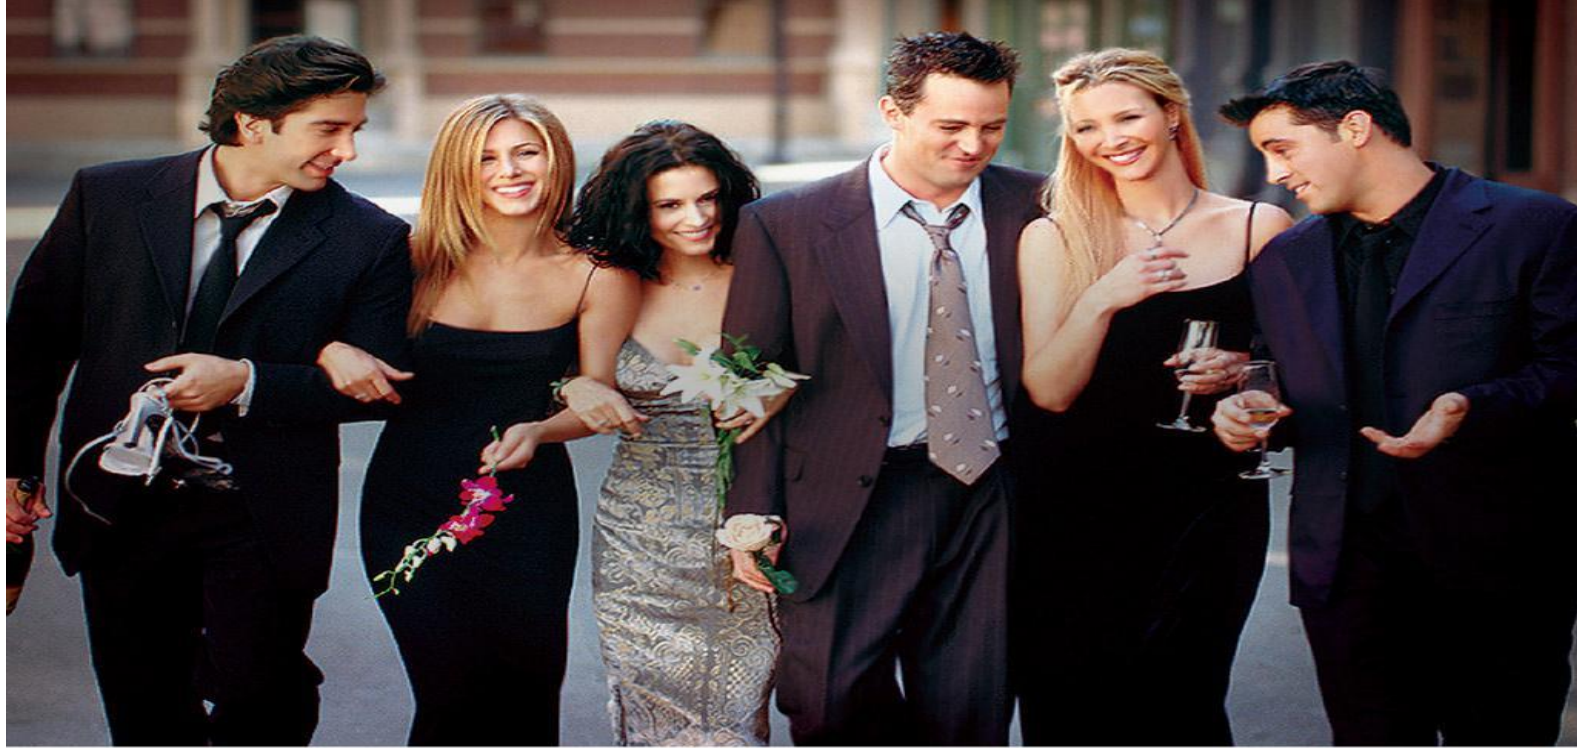

MORE REPORTING VERBS

- There are several reporting verbs we can use
- We may report something that was said without keeping to the original words
- The reporting verb itself may contain that idea or intention.
- The verbs here can be: to admit, to advise, to agree, to remind, to suggest, to encourage, to insist, to persuade, to warn, to refuse, to urge, etc.
 - I admit it, “I did it!”
 - She admitted she did it.

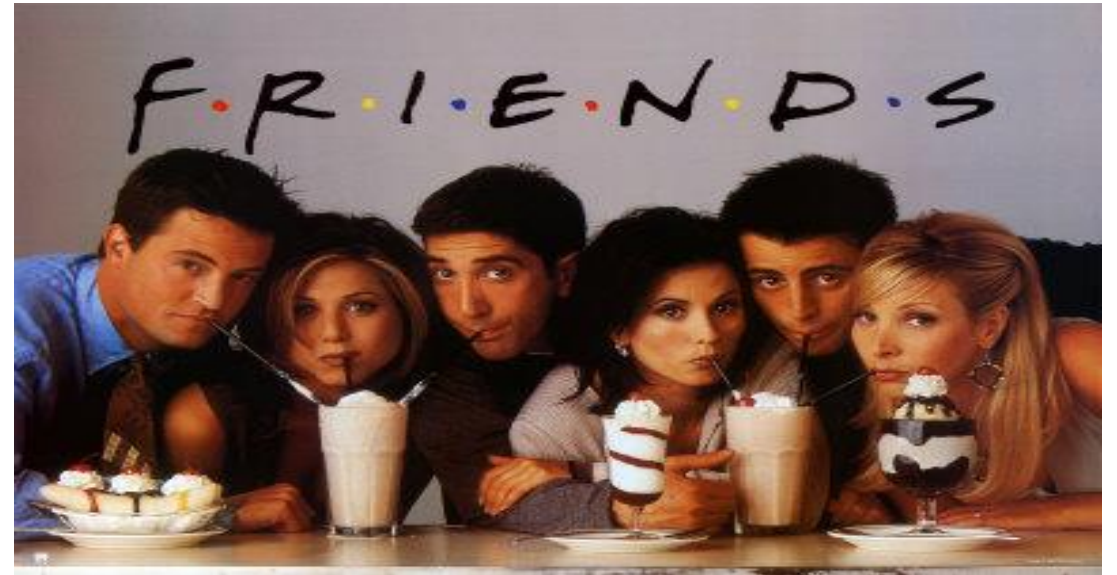

FRIENDS

F·R·I·E·N·D·S

FRIENDS

- Friends is an American sitcom created which aired on NBC from September 22, 1994 to May 6, 2004. The series revolves around a group of friends in the New York City borough of Manhattan.
- We will be watching an entire episode. We will be doing a listening activity and grammar activity.

DISCUSSION

Season 5: Episode 22: The One with Joey's Big Break

Discuss these questions in your groups:

1. What TV shows do you like/watch? In English and in your native language?
2. Have you every watched Friends? If not, have you every heard of the show? What do you know about it?
3. What do you think “big break” means?
